Hear to Work Initiative

The purpose of the Hear to Work Initiative is to provide hearing aids and services to individuals ages 21 through 64 who are unable to find work or are under-employed because of a hearing loss that could be corrected with the use of hearing aids.

Currently, there are many programs and resources for children and the elderly to obtain hearing aids if they cannot afford them, but this is the only program in Colorado that targets hearing impaired people of working age.

Individuals are screened, and then referred to a participating audiologist who will fit them with hearing aids and provide six months of their services at a greatly reduced rate. The audiologist will be paid $500 from the program, and the recipient will be asked to pay the $500 back once they are employed and can do so. Nothing more is asked of the recipient.

Siemens Hearing Instruments, Inc. will provide the hearing aids at little or no cost. Any cost is borne by the Initiative.

The program is a joint project of a number of the Sertoma clubs in the Denver Metro area. The program was conceived by Dr. Barbara Jenkins, a noted local audiologist, and a Sertoman.

"Without a hearing aid they cannot work,
Without work they can't afford a hearing aid."
